mill fund.

Mr. Bailey said that he knew there would be intense feeling about this matter. The committee have had this under consideration for several weeks and have been endeavoring to find a way to meet the expenses of the State without touching the school fund. The State is in such an impoverished condition that it cannot meet this five mill tax. The State could temporize by borrowing money, but no careful business man would do that. The way for States and nations to do is to levy sufficient to meet their expenses. The total State expenditures in 1859 were $394.008, and in 1860 $525,596, which increase was due to the Peck defalcation. Following these years money became flush, and the State branched out as individuals did, so that we find the out as individuals did, so that we find the State expenditures for 1876 were $1.293,277, and for 1877, $1,371,627. But the times are hard now and when is the end to be? Every town in the State would labor under except the stat town in the state would labor under ex-reme hardship to meet the five mill tax. He was glad to give aid to the schools, but the school fund should be limited. This step has been a hard thing for the committee to do, but they have almost unanimously, only one dissenting, concluded to report this bill.

In 1870 the State school expense was $49,-556.17, and in 1871. $58,414.97. In six years the expenses on this account have increased so that in 1877 the amount was $481.224.47 and the estimated expense for 1878 is $428,-699. Can we stand pressure like this? Adding to this last amount the interest due on the public debt this year $355,000, and these the public debt this year $355,000, and these two items, the school expense and the in-terest, reach the sum of $783,698—an amoun greater than the total State expenses in 1859 and '60. The population, too, of this State is almost stationary and the valuation is about the same as in 1860. The committee tried not to touch the school fund, but there compelled places to give to other localities after they have expended money to support their own schools. If you take from the school fund, it will do no harm and will establish a four mill tax in place of one of five. And the Senator also stated that it was his honest conviction that $100.000 of was his honest conviction that $100.000, of the State school money was now annually

Wool Market.

BOSTON, Feb. 13.

There is no change of any importance in the Wool market. Fine fleeces are a shade casier, and there is now very little difference in the prices of medium X and the liner fleeces of Ohlo and Pennsylvania. Manuiscturers have been running almost exclusively on medium and X grades, but the very low prices of fine Wools are beginning to attract more attention, but can only be sold at very unsatisfactory prices. The saies of the week include 150,000 lbs fleeces at 44a46c for medium X and PX and above, Ohio and Pennsylvania; 28a45c for medium and X New York, New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Michigan, with one tot of XX Michigan at 48c; 337,000 lbs California at 18a35c vib Some iots of coarse fleece have been sold at 34ja35c bl. In combing and delaine fleeces very little has been done. Prices are nominally 43a53c bl bfor coarse, fine and medium. A lot of 6000 lbs Canada combing sold at 46c V bt, the only sale of this description we have had to notice for some weeks; and 10,000 lbs unwashed combing and delaine at 25a36 b b for coarse and fine.
